Taurus Funds Management (“TFM”) will sub-underwrite the Entitlement Offer to the same extent pursuant to a sub-underwriting agreement with the Underwriter. In determining to proceed with the Entitlement Offer (including the terms of the underwriting and sub-underwriting arrangements), Directors of RRP relied on TFM’s commitment not to propose or support a delisting or capital consolidation of RRP within fourteen months of the completion of the Offer. This commitment is recorded in the terms of the underwriting and sub-underwriting agreements.

TFM owns 31.86 of the issued capital of the Company. TFM has entered into an agreement to sub-underwrite the Entitlement Offer. Key risks

This section discusses the key risks attaching to an investment in RRP, which may affect the future operating and financial performance of RRP and the value of RRP shares. Before investing in RRP shares, you should consider whether this investment is suitable for you having regard to publicly available information (including this presentation), your personal circumstances and following consultation with financial or other professional advisers. Additional risks and uncertainties that RRP is unaware of, or that it currently considers to be immaterial, may also become important factors that adversely affect RRP's operating and financial performance.

- Entitlement Issue Risk
 - Underwriting
 - The Entitlement Issue is being partially underwritten by the Underwriter. Investors should be aware of the terms of the Underwriting Agreement as outlined in Page 12, which includes certain termination events that may not be within the control of RRP.
 - Investors should be aware that if the Underwriter terminates the Underwriting Agreement the RRP Board of Directors will be required to meet and to determine whether the Entitlement Offer can or should continue.
 - Potential control transaction and reduced liquidity
 - As is demonstrated in Page 12 of this Presentation, TFM as sub-underwriter has the potential to significantly increase its ownership of the issued capital of the Company. TFM may hold up to 87.4% of the issued capital of RRP and may gain control over TFM without paying any "control premium". Further, an increase in TFM's shareholding may adversely affect the liquidity of RRP shares (that is, the ability of shareholders to trade their shares) and have a consequential adverse effect on the market price of RRP shares.
 - Implications of Shareholders not taking up their Entitlements
 - Existing RRP shareholders' interests will be significantly diluted if they do not take up their Entitlements. Shareholders may be able to sell their Entitlements on the ASX. However the ability to realise value for Entitlements is subject to there being demand for the Entitlement.
 - Potential De-listing of RRP
 - If TFM's interest in the Ordinary Shares becomes such that the ASX is not satisfied that there remains an orderly and liquid market in the securities, quotation of the Ordinary Shares on the ASX may be suspended and, ultimately, RRP removed from the ASX official list. However, as stated on slide 12, TFM has represented to the Board of RRP that it will not support a delisting within 14 months of the completion of the Entitlement Offer.
 - Compulsory acquisition by TFM
 - If TFM becomes a "90% holder", as defined in section 664A of the Corporations Act, of ordinary shares in RRP, it may have the right to compulsorily acquire all the remaining ordinary shares that neither TFM nor any related bodies corporate of TFM has full beneficial interests in. TFM's ability to undertake such a compulsory acquisition will be dependent on it complying with the provisions of the Corporations Act and any other applicable laws. TFM will not have the ability to become a "90% holder" as a result of the Entitlement Offer but may, subject to the Corporations Act, subsequently increase its holdings of shares in the Company.

Key risks

- Operational Risks
 - Strength of natural resources and coal sector
 - RRP's future is influenced by the general state of the resources sector and in particular the coal market
 - Achievement of forecasts
 - RRP has based its business plans on a mine plan and financial model, the achievement of which is dependent on a number of factors, some of which are outside RRP's control (e.g. license delays, coal price, wages fuel, material exchange rates and other inputs).
 - Dependence on key management personnel
 - The operating and financial performance of RRP is largely dependent on its ability to retain and attract key management personnel. Whilst RRP makes every effort to retain key management personnel, there can be no guarantee that it will be able to do so. Any loss of key management personnel could adversely affect RRP's business, results of operations or financial conditions and performance.
 - Requirements for unforeseen capital expenditure
 - RRP's business may require significant unforeseen capital expenditures
 - Current and future funding requirements
 - RRP's ability to complete current and future project development. To the extent that additional equity or debt funding is not available from time to time on acceptable terms, or at all, RRP may not be able to take advantage of acquisition and other growth opportunities, develop new ideas.

Key risks

- Project Risks
 - The Katingan Ria project is subject to key project risks; a key risk being the logistics, in particular river haulage. The Katingan River is seasonal and the periods where the river is unavailable may be greater or lesser than estimated
 - Additionally, the project is subject to:
 - Environmental risks
 - Social and Community risk
- Country risk
 - The financial performance of each of RRP's foreign operations may be adversely impacted by current or future fiscal or regulatory regimes, local laws and regulations or changes to the economic, political, judicial, administrative and/or security climate, policies or conditions in those geographies.
- Legislative and regulatory changes
 - RRP's business is affected by a range of industry specific and general legal and regulatory controls. Changes in these types of controls can have an adverse effect on RRP's financial performance. Further, any major shift in regulatory policy may impact on the profitability of RRP.
- Acquisition risks
 - Completion risk
 - The viability of the Katingan Ria project is subject to completion of all licensing and securing adequate investment or off-take agreements and funding.

Key risks

- General risks
 - Market
 - The market price of RRP shares will fluctuate due to various factors, many of which are non-specific to RRP, including recommendations by brokers and analysts, Australian and international general economic conditions, inflation rates, interest rates, changes in government, fiscal, monetary and regulatory policies, global geopolitical events and hostilities and acts of terrorism, demand for listed securities and investor perceptions. In the future, these factors may cause RRP shares to trade at a lower price and/or cause the value of New Shares to rise or fall below the Issue Price. Stock markets, including the ASX, have exhibited increased volatility in recent times as a result of economic conditions. Continued volatility could negatively impact the value of RRP shares.
 - Exchange rate risk
 - RRP operates internationally and faces foreign exchange rate risks associated with foreign currency denominated debt, input costs and offshore earnings.
 - Domestic and global economic conditions
 - The financial performance of RRP could be affected by changes in economic conditions in Australia and overseas. Such changes include:
 - Changes in underlying cost structures for labour and service charges;
 - Changes in fiscal, monetary or regulatory policy by governments or government agencies or instrumentalities, including in relation to inflation and interest rates, which may impact the profitability of RRP or a general fall in the demand for RRP's products;
 - Declines in aggregate investment and economic output in Australia or in key offshore regions; and
 - National or international political and economic instability or the instability of national or international financial markets including as a result of terrorist acts or war or the recent dislocation in credit and capital markets.
 - Asset impairment
 - The RRP board regularly monitors impairment risk. Consistent with accounting standards, RRP is periodically required to assess the carrying value of its assets. Where the value of an asset is deemed to be less than its carrying value, RRP is obliged to recognise an impairment charge in its profit and loss account. Impairment charges can be significant and operate to reduce the level of a company's profits and potentially, its capacity to pay dividends. Impairment charges are a non-cash item.

Key risks

- Changes in accounting policy
 - Accounting standards may change. This may affect the reported earnings of RRP and its reported financial position from time to time.
- Taxation
 - Future changes in taxation law, including changes in interpretation or application of the law by the courts or taxation authorities in Australia, or other relevant jurisdictions in which RRP operates, may affect taxation treatment of an investment in RRP shares or the holding and disposal of those shares. Further, changes in tax law, or changes in the way tax law is expected to be interpreted, in the various jurisdictions in which RRP operates, may impact the future tax liabilities of RRP.
- Litigation
 - As with all businesses, RRP is exposed to potential legal and other claims or disputes in the course of its business. Although RRP seeks to minimise the risk of such claims arising, and their impact if they do arise, such claims will arise from time to time and could adversely affect RRP's business, results of operations or financial condition and performance.

Key risks

- Risks associated with renouncing entitlements under the Entitlement offer
 - Prices obtainable for entitlements may rise and fall over the entitlement trading period. If you sell your entitlements at one stage in the entitlement trading period, you may receive a higher or lower price than a shareholder who sells their entitlements at a different stage in the entitlement trading period. There is no guarantee that there will be a viable market during, or on any particular day in, the entitlement trading period, on which to sell entitlements on market. You should note that if you sell, or do not take up, all or part of your entitlement, then your percentage shareholding will be diluted by not participating to the full extent in the Entitlement Offer and you will not be exposed to future increases or decreases in our share price in respect of the New Shares which could have been issued to you had you taken up all of your entitlement. The tax consequences from selling entitlements or from doing nothing may be different. Before selling entitlements or choosing to do nothing in respect of entitlements, you should seek independent tax advice and may wish to refer to the tax disclosure contained in the offer booklet which will provide further information on potential taxation implications for Australian shareholders.
