Tropical Cyclone Debbie – Impact on Foxleigh Coal Mine

Realm Resources Limited (Realm, the Company) notes recent media coverage of Tropical Cyclone Debbie (TC Debbie), a large cyclone currently crossing parts of north Queensland. TC Debbie has delivered substantial wind and rain conditions and is expected to continue until Friday, impacting large areas of the Bowen Basin.

In advance of the expected storm event progressing throughout the Bowen Basin, the Company's Foxleigh Coal Mine (Mine) commenced detailed preparation works to secure the mine for the expected storm. Currently, the majority of mining operations have ceased and key mining assets are being placed into safe areas. Management will continue to monitor the situation, as the storm further progresses inland and take additional steps as required to ensure the safety of the mine, Employees and Service providers.

The majority of logistics (rail and port) for the Bowen Basin Coal Fields ceased operation and secured their assets in preparation for the cyclone. At this stage the Company anticipates production will be impacted for the rest of the week, assuming no material damage is sustained to key Mine assets, including the site access roads or those assets of the Mine's critical infrastructure suppliers, including water, power rail and port. The site has substantial product coal stock which will assist recommencing supply to customers at the earliest opportunity.

The Company will provide further information on the status of the Mine and any related impacts, as further information is available.
